Fall Hiking Options Lure Active Visitors to Carmel-by-the-Sea

>PRWEB.COM Newswire<="">

Carmel-by-the-Sea, CA (PRWEB) September 30, 2013

There are many reasons why visitors flock to the Monterey Peninsula throughout the year, but for hiking and walking enthusiasts there is no better time than the fall season. The weather is ideal, trail conditions are perfect, and the route options – whether Carmel, Carmel Valley, Big Sur, Pebble Beach or Monterey – are abundant.

All these factors are why three lodging properties in Carmel-by-the-Sea have created specific hiking/walking packages to cater to visitors with a passion to explore the area on foot. Here's a closer look:

Tradewinds Carmel, Mission at Third Avenue. The Tradewinds' "Hike Big Sur and Carmel Valley" three-night, two-person package takes advantage of two of the area's premier hiking destinations. After enjoying the property's continental breakfast buffet, guests will meet with hotel staff for an outline of that day's hike. The first day features a trip to Big Sur, the second day to Carmel Valley; and the third day following checkout to Point Lobos State Reserve. Other package highlights: two $50 dining certificates to recommended restaurants
