Clint Eastwood 'riding shotgun' in Carmel centennial

MAKE OUR DAY

In Carmel-by-the-Sea, where centennial celebrations are running all summer and into fall, town leaders have tapped their most famous resident to serve as grand marshal of the grand centennial parade on Oct. 29. They say Clint Eastwood, actor, director and former mayor, will be "riding shotgun on top of the Wells Fargo Stagecoach" during the procession. (We hope they don't mean that literally, as we punks are not feeling lucky, have not kept track of whether it's been six shots or five, and have no wish to make Dirty Harry's day.)

Find details on all the festivities -- including this summer's reopening of the newly renovated Outdoor Forest Theater -- at www.carmelcentennial.com.

Actor-director Clint Eastwood, shown here at the 3M Celebrity Challenge held at the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am last year, will be grand marshal of Carmel-by-the-Sea's centennial parade in October. (Patrick Tehan/Bay Area News Group) (Patrick Tehan)
