

The historic Carmel Mission features artwork and artifacts throughout the church and its museums.

Wanderings: Carmel-by-the-Sea, California

Explore this artists' colony on the coast during its centennial anniversary

Written by Marla Cimini
October | November 2016

In Northern California, courtyards, cottages and creative arts combine to form Carmel-by-the-Sea's subtle and elegant charm. Drawing visitors from across the world, this town of one square mile overflows with art and natural beauty. These elements intertwine with distinctive architecture, including homes that appear to be plucked from a fairytale and placed into this delightful beach town.

Located on the Monterey Peninsula, about 120 miles south of San Francisco, Carmel-by-the-Sea is easy to explore on foot. Its downtown area is lined with galleries, boutiques and restaurants. Behind buildings, more than 40 narrow, hidden passageways twist and turn, opening onto courtyards often adorned with outdoor sculpture or artwork. The courtyards were constructed in the 1920s, around the time when Hugh Comstock's Dollhouse Tudor houses and shops were built. The small-town ambience is palpable; there are no addresses or parking meters. Aside from Carmel's tiny downtown, sidewalks are nonexistent.

Map: Daphne Gilliam

And seemingly always, the Pacific Ocean is steps away. For a breezy sea stroll, simply walk toward the beach, which is dog friendly (along with many hotels, restaurants and other establishments). The town’s streets slope downward to the Scenic Bluff Path that stretches from tony Pebble Beach to Point Lobos, offering glorious views overlooking the waves, gardens and cypress trees along the way.

Famous in recent years for its former mayor, Clint Eastwood, who still resides in town, Carmel-by-the-Sea transports visitors to an earlier era with its history of attracting spirited, ambitious talents. After the massive 1906 earthquake destroyed much of San Francisco, many artists, writers and musicians fled to Carmel and established a thriving colony. At the time, the city’s Arts and Crafts Club was in its infancy and welcomed the creative community with open arms and budget-friendly rents. Among the renowned writers who called Carmel home were Sinclair Lewis, Mary Austin and Upton Sinclair, and artists such as Percy Gray, Anne Bremer and William Ritschel found inspiration along Carmel’s shores.

This Bohemian haven was incorporated on October 31, 1916, and celebrates its centennial anniversary this year with special events. Take, for instance, the citywide parade (planned by the organizers of the Rose Bowl parade) and celebratory lunch on October 29. There’s also music, theater, dance, art and culinary events planned through December.

With approximately 100 galleries situated within the town’s borders, both avid collectors and casual visitors find Carmel a dreamy art destination. For enthusiasts, Carmel-by-the-Sea offers a rare treat: to observe and interact with artists while they work in their studios. Notable artists include award-winning sculptor Steven Whyte of his namesake gallery; as well as Mary Titus of Titus Contemporary Gallery and Galerie Plein Aire’s husband-and-wife team, Jeff Smith and Cyndra Bradford. These artists open their studios to the public and are often found behind the easel or in the midst of sculpting a new masterpiece. Other standout galleries include Trotter for early California art; Cassandra Blackmore for contemporary glass works; and Gallery Sur, which showcases sculpture and photography. A trusted way to make the most of gallery visits is through Carmel Art Tours, led by local expert Rohana LoSchiavo, who offers custom walks based on her 25 years in the fine art world.

While admiring the artwork in Carmel, it’s impossible not to be inspired by the diverse architecture as well, which ranges from shingled bungalows to modern designs. Over the years, renowned architects have left their mark here, including Frank Lloyd Wright, Charles Sumner Greene, Hugh Guttersen and others. At the corner of Lincoln Street and 6th Avenue sits the first house built by architect M.J. Murphy in 1902. Known as the “First Murphy House,” today it’s home to the Carmel Heritage Society Welcome Center.

Terry's Lounge, located in the historic Cypress Inn, features a lovely outdoor patio and locally-sourced delights on the menu.

Anton & Michel offers a selection of grilled seafood and other specialties.

For more extensive art experiences, the Carmel Art Association, the second-oldest cooperative in the U.S., features multiple rooms with exhibits from numerous local and regional artists. For those short on time, the stunning entry garden is certainly worth a peek. Nearby, the Center for Photographic Art is a nonprofit that advances the Central Coast’s photographic arts through education and exhibition. It evolved from the renowned Friends of Photography established in 1967 by Ansel Adams and other photographic luminaries. Today, the organization holds installations and events throughout the year. Another major attraction is the historic Carmel Mission Basilica, with its museums and galleries. For visitors with an extra day to explore, the Monterey Museum of Art, located outside of town, features works by contemporary regional artists along with legendary talents.

After combing through galleries, it’s delightful to relax and enjoy the culinary scene. Anton & Michel is a popular modern European restaurant, while Vesuvio offers Southern Italian specialties with views from a lively rooftop patio. Located in the landmark Cypress Inn, Terry’s Lounge features an outdoor courtyard, craft cocktails and an extensive menu, including specialties such as truffle ravioli and chicken piccata.

Spending the night in Carmel offers more opportunities to admire the area’s history and architecture. The elegant L’Auberge Carmel is a 20-room Mediterranean-style inn with a top-rated restaurant, Aubergine. Nearby, the Cypress Inn is a landmark hotel built in 1929 and co-owned by legendary actress Doris Day. The luxurious Carmel Country Inn is a bed-and-breakfast-style retreat in the center of town.

Much like its hidden courtyards, Carmel-by-the-Sea reveals itself to visitors in subtle ways, rewarding travelers with lingering aesthetic treasures. From the hypnotic waves lapping the shoreline, to an artist quietly working in a studio, to the understated design of a beachfront cottage, the town appeals to artists of all kinds and remains an artistic oasis today.

A stunning sunset over Carmel Beach shines a spotlight on the area’s natural beauty. Photo: CarmelCalifornia.com

If YOU GO...

Events and Attractions

Carmel Art Association

Dolores St. & 6th Ave; 831.624.6176; carmelart.org

Carmel Art Tours

831.402.6461; carmelarttours.com

Carl Cherry Center for the Arts

4th & Guadalupe; 831.624.7491; carlcherrycenter.org

Carmel Heritage Society

Lincoln St. & 6th Ave; 831.624.4447; carmelheritage.org

Carmel International Film Festival

October 19 – 23; 831.625.370; carmelfilmfest.com

Carmel Mission Basilica

3080 Rio Road; 831.624.1271; carmelmission.org

Center for Photographic Art

San Carlos & 9th Ave; 831.625.5181; photography.org

Celebrating Carmel's Centennial

carmelcentennial.com

Monterey Museum of Art

559 Pacific; Monterey; 831.372.5477; montereyart.org

Galleries

Cassandra Blackmore

6th Ave, between Dolores & Lincoln 415.944.0057;

cassandriablackmore.com

Galerie Plein Aire

2 NW Dolores St, between 6th & Ocean; 831.277.6165;

galeriepleinaire.com

Gallery Sur

6th Ave; 831.626.2615; gallerysur.com

Josh Hardy Galleries

Lincoln St. & 6th Ave; 831.625.4353; hardygalleries.com

Photography West Gallery

1 Dolores St. & Ocean Ave.; 831.625.1587; photographywest.com

Steven Whyte's Sculpture Studio and Gallery:

Dolores St; 831.620.1917; facebook.com/stevenwhytecarmel

Titus Contemporary Gallery

Between 6th & 5th Ave. 831.622.9880; marytitusart.com

Trotter Galleries

San Carlos St, near 7th Ave. 831.625.3246; trottergalleries.com

Westbrook Modern

Dolores St; 831.625.228; westbrookmodern.com

Winfield Gallery

Dolores St; 831.624.3369; winfieldgallery.com

Lodging

Carmel Country Inn

Dolores St. & 3rd Ave.; 831.625.3263; carmelcountryinn.com

Cypress Inn

Lincoln St. & 7th Ave.; 831.624.3871; cypress-inn.com

L’Auberge Carmel

Monte Verde St. & 7th Ave. 831.624.8578; laubergecarmel.com

Tickle Pink Inn

155 Highland Dr; 831.624.1244; ticklepinkinn.com

Dining

Anton & Michel

Mission St. & 7th Ave.; 831.624.2406; antonandmichel.com

Flying Fish Grill

Mission St; 831.625.1962; flyingfishgrill.com

Terry’s Lounge

Lincoln St. & 7th St.; 831.620.7460; carmelterrys.com

Vesuvio

6th Ave; 831.625.1766; chefpepe.com/restaurants/vesuvio

Yafa

Junipero & 5th Ave; 831.624.9232 yafarestaurant.com

0 Comments

Sort by Oldest ▼

Facebook Comments Plugin

ABOUT

SUBSCRIBE

CONTACT US

SITE MAP

EVENTS

FORGE

SECTIONS

Auction Block
Collector’s Notebook
Details
Illuminations
Perspective
Wanderings

Collector’s Eye
Designing the West
Editor’s Note
In the Studio
Rendering
Western Landmark

ISSUES

December 2015 | January 2016
December 2014 | January 2015
June | July 2015
April | May 2015
February | March 2015
August | September 2014